The supermodel Bella Hadid is back to her roots in the streets with her fashion uniqueness. She is back in New York City in the month of October 2022 using the streets to show off the latest fall fashion trend. The breezy air and the city's cold weather has the supermodel eagerly waiting to show off a new craze with the look of two belts.

Bella Hadid stepped out in New York City with full intentions of making a fall fashion statement. It wasn't the designer bag or the oversized pants. She steps into a new creative liberty in surprising the world with not One Belt, But Two. Bella is shown here wearing a red striped turtleneck sweater, fur collared leather jacket, and some baggy jeans and leather boots. Also, being held up with one belt around the waist and another free falling right below it. Bella never fails to make a perfect debut on her upcoming fashion details.

Bella Hadid is known for her effortless and confident looks. She is spotted wearing khaki dad shorts before going to a Tom Ford show. Hadid turns over into her 90's fashion wearing white khaki dad Bermuda shorts, with knee high leather boots, classic brown belt and accessorized with her thin hair band that pushed back her hair. Then layered it with a white classic tank under a tight fitted black button up.

The classic Y2K look is exposed in her dress frequently and catches many people's eyes. Supermodel Hadid made the classic "ugly" look such a trendy chic one. This has made a big influence on the fashion trends presented today because many other people have been influenced by celebrities like Bella Hadid to create their own version of it.

Bella Hadid spends her days and goes out into the world with her confidence and effortless outfit choices. Although it looks effortless, her outfits always manage to be chic and on trend. Hadid is spotted in the streets of New York City wearing what looks like tighty-whities but are actually just white shorts. She pairs this with a graphic tee, bomber jacket and her platform ugg boots to give it look more of a relaxed and comfortable look. There is never a dull moment when it comes to Bella Hadid's street fashion supremacy. It really takes a bold woman to walk the streets in New York City in wearing the tiny shorts and Bella Hadid succeeded in this particular,
